Bernicchi Sues for Over $100 Million Over Stories

Robert Bernicchi

Robert Bernicchi of Hillsborough slapped a lawsuit Monday against a San Francisco television station and a North San Mateo County newspaper that have criticized his actions as manager and engineering consultant to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District, which serves Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma.

Bernicchi is asking damages in excess of $100 million from KRON-TV, one of its reporters, Thayer Walker, and the Industrial City Publishing Co., which publishes the Daly City Record.

His suit alleges slander, libel, invasion of privacy, outrageous misconduct and intentional interference with advantageous business relationships.

KRON-TV aired a half-hour report twice in December that accused Bernicchi, San Mateo County Supervisor James Fitzgerald and former Daly City Mayor Frank Pacelli of profiting from interweaving business relationships. The report was prepared by Walker.

The Record has printed articles critical of Sanitation District officials.

Bernicchi is co-owner of Resources, Engineering and Management of South San Francisco, a firm that presently handles all of the district's engineering consulting. He served as manager of the district from 1963 to 1974.

Despite the lawsuit, KRON-TV is airing this week additional reports, which charge that Bernicchi and the district's outgoing manager, David Gehre, have benefited from contracts they arranged for one another with the Bayshore, Montara and Granada Sanitation Districts.

Betty Mazza Smiles

City Clerk Vote Was Close: 3-2

As Daly City's deputy city clerk, Betty Mazza was in the awkward position Monday night of taking minutes as the City Council chose a person for the job she wanted.

Mrs. Mazza and Rick Silver, administrative aide to Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, D-Daly City, were the only candidates for the position of Daly City city clerk.

The vote that she recorded on her steno pad was a close one: 3-2. But it went in her favor and she flashed a smile of gratitude.

Mrs. Mazza had an uneasy moment during the meeting, when it became apparent that Councilman Albert Teglia wanted to hold an election to select the next city clerk.

The council had the choice of either appointing a successor or setting an election. City Attorney Albert Polonsky said either action would have to be taken after Mrs. Ohlendorf officially resigned.

Although she submitted her resignation earlier this month, Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf is not due to resign until March 31.

Polonsky said the council tentatively could name a successor now and formally appoint the person after March 31 or, he added, it could hold a special election — but not before November.

Polonsky agreed, upon questioning by Teglia, that the election could be held in June if Mrs. Ohlendorf were to step down March 1.

Councilman James Tucker quickly made a motion that the council express its intent to fill the vacancy with an appointment. It was seconded and passed on a 3-2 vote, with Teglia and Councilman Victor Kyriakis dissenting.

Teglia explained, "I cannot agree to an appointment. I believe in the election of elected officials."

City Clerk-Designate Betty Mazza

Kyriakis was on record as supporting Silver, who served as his campaign manager.

Mrs. Mazza was appointed tentatively with the same 3-2 split.

She must be confirmed officially after Mrs. Ohlendorf leaves office March 31.

The appointment was a special relief to Mrs. Mazza, because she and her husband recently bought a house in Daly City to fulfill a city requirement that the city clerk be a local resident.

Mrs. Mazza has worked in the Daly City city clerk's office seven years. She has lived in San Mateo County 20 years.

'They Just Don't Care'

D.C. Fights Bias Rap

Complaints about the plight of youth in Daly City, the condition of streets in the Crocker section and drainage problems at a new lot dominated the public forum portion of the City Council's Monday night meeting.

Eddie C. Welbon tried to make his usual pitch to the council for more money to operate his Daly City Multi-Purpose and Educational Service Center Inc., a job-finding center that lost its public funding after the county investigated its practices.

But Welbon was cut short by councilmen Victor Kyriakis and James Tucker and, finally, by Mayor William Schumacher, as he protested that he is not able to pay his rent and phone bill.

The councilman told him to save his remarks until Feb. 5, when the council will consider his organization and others for federal funding under the Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA).

Two youths who began defending Welbon were advised by Councilman Albert Teglia, "You're only hurting your case." As they returned to their seats, one said angrily, "They just don't care about Daly City."

Welbon's supporters in the audience applauded when the Rev. Jack Duffey suggested the council have a youth conference involving school officials, professional counselors and young people to examine the problems of Daly City's youth.

None of the councilmen commented on that idea but Schumacher noted that he has tried unsuccessfully to persuade legislators to allow people under the age of 18 to work for less than the minimum wage.

Although Duffey recently raised an outcry about the city's failure to spend enough funds improving the Crocker neighborhood, it was Harold Calder who brought the subject up this week.

Calder said the roads in the area have been going downhill for the past 12 years and he objected to the overhead power lines.

City Manager David Rowe responded that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will determine which lines are buried, not the city.

Roseann Emerson of the Serramonte Homeowners Association complained about flooding in the new Cameo Tot Lot during recent rain storms. Rowe promised to look into the problem.

In other business: The council approved use permits for a combined commercial office/multiple-family residential building at the southeast corner of Eastlake Avenue and Mission Street and a "mother-in-law apartment" at 1624 Bryant St.

The council authorized an agreement with the state under which the city will receive $220,000 in federal funds for traffic signals on John Daly Boulevard, from Delong Street to Sheffield Drive and Park Plaza Drive to Lake Merced Boulevard.

The council agreed to spend $73,822 on 10 new police patrol cars and two station wagons for the Fire Department. It approved a contract that grants $3,600 to the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce; another contract extending the services of an outside consultant, Connerly and Associates, through March; and a request by Rowe that he be permitted to attend a city managers' conference in February at a cost of about $200.

A contract under which Daly City provides the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District with police and fire services for $8,033 per month was extended through June.

The council continued a public hearing on HCDA funding until Feb. 5 and set Feb. 12 as the date for public hearings on a proposed zoning change at 33 Vale St. and a declaration of nuisance and abatement at 52 Willits St.

Named to the city's Residential Rehabilitation Advisory Committee were Eva Aiello, Leroy Simmons and Ponce Villarreal.

The council commended Lorraine D'Elia, who plans to leave the city manager's office to work for Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) beginning Feb. 1, and Richard Liberty, who is retiring from his job as clerk of the court of the Northern Judicial District.

Speier Joins Race

Claiming she doesn't want "the sympathy vote," Jackie Speier Monday launched her bid to win the congressional seat of her slain employer, Leo J. Ryan.

Miss Speier, Ryan's counsel and a member of his congressional and state Assembly staffs for 12 years, was wounded in the Guyana massacre last November which claimed Ryan's life.

Because of her association with Ryan and her injuries, Miss Speier's candidacy announcement at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City attracted widespread television and newspaper coverage.

She signed her declaration for candidacy at a staged event for photographers, then embarked upon the process of gathering sufficient petition signatures before 5 p.m. Monday, the filing deadline for the special March 6 election.

Nearly two dozen candidates are vying for Ryan's 11th Congressional District seat.

Miss Speier, 28, said she resigned from Ryan's congressional staff, taking her off the federal payroll while she campaigns.

She downplayed any potential rift her candidacy might have among the surviving Ryan aides and friends.

Also in the race are Joe Holsinger, Ryan's staff aide, and George Corey, the former mayor of San Bruno and a longtime personal friend of Ryan.

Corey, Holsinger and Miss Speier are regarded as the front running Democrats in the race.

Asked if their candidacies would split the votes, giving an opening to any number of underdogs in the race, Miss Speier asserted that the Ryan followers "are all different, varied individuals in our background and our experiences."

Asked if she was banking on an emotional appeal, Miss Speier said, "I hope voters will judge candidates

WORTH SAVING?

The Colma City Council has voted to request estimates on remodeling City Hall on El Camino Real. City Engineer Edwin Smith said preliminary reports indicate that $90,000 to $100,000 in refurbishing and $10,000 in termite work must be done to repair the 47-year-old Spanish style building. Smith said more termite damage probably will be found after the building is opened up. Councilman Fred Garbini said he believes it is important to restore the structure. Mayor Raymond Ottoboni favors looking at alternative ideas before spending money on repairs. He said the city is looking into the idea of buying eight acres of land from Woodlawn Cemetery. Ottoboni said inadequate parking at the present City Hall is one of the biggest problems. His car recently was smashed while parked in front of the building. For the story and more pictures of the situation, see Page 9.

Jury to Probe Deputy Brutality Charges

By RICK SULLIVAN

U.S. Attorney G. William Hunter of San Francisco said Friday he had made a decision more than a month ago to bring charges of brutality involving unnamed San Mateo County sheriff's deputies to the federal grand jury.

His office, Hunter said, would allege that sheriff's deputies violated civil rights sections of federal law by reportedly beating at least two persons during an altercation in June 1977 at the main jail at the Redwood City Hall of Justice.

Hunter acknowledged that this is the first case of civil rights violations by police officers to be brought to the grand jury in San Francisco in nine years.

"Civil rights is the top priority in my office," said Hunter, who was appointed the top area U.S. attorney two years ago. He succeeded James Brown.

Deputy U.S. Attorney Deborah Seymour, Hunter said, would present the case to the grand jury when it meets on Jan. 29 and 30.

Hunter would not state how many deputies are under investigation.

It is known however, that on Jan. 2 of this year the U.S. Attorney's office served a subpoena to County Sheriff John R. McDonald directing him to turn over three sets of documents relating to charges of brutality.

These documents, according to Sheriff's Lt. Richard Platt, included the personnel files of Sgt. Ervin Pronske, Sgt. Robert Cancilla, the deputies, Tim White, Carol Muscio and Dennis Doran.

They also included all the files the sheriff has kept over an unspecified period of time on charges of improper use of force by the five named deputies, plus the case file of a specific incident in 1977.

In July of that year Pronske and other deputies used excessive force and beat two party attendees, Anthony Gullo and James MacPherson.

Gullo filed a civil rights violation charge against Pronske and 11 other deputies in federal court. Mac-Pherson filed suit in state court. The disposition of both cases is pending.

A Superior Court jury last year acquitted Gullo of assault on a police officer and other charges stemming from the party incident. Similar charges against MacPherson were dropped.

The county district attorney's office, which is defending the sheriff's office in both civil suits and the forthcoming grand jury proceeding, has refused to surrender two documents that were subpoenaed: the personnel files of the deputies and files on improper use of force by deputies.

Assistant District Attorney James Aiello has filed to violate the deputies' right to privacy, which is protected, he said, by federal law.

It also was learned that Deputy District Attorney Edward Rojas has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury.

Rojas reportedly heard a scuffle between Gullo,

MacPherson and sheriff's deputies, when the two men were brought to the county jail after the party.

McDonald acknowledged at a press conference Friday that FBI agents have been interviewing deputies and jailprisoners.

He said he has given the FBI full cooperation in its inquiry.

The sheriff, however, strongly rebutted reports of widespread police brutality in the county jail, aired Thursday night by television station KQED.

"This program contained a great deal of untruths, half-truths and in some cases outright lies," said McDonald.

KQED, the sheriff added, cited 500 cases of reported complaints against police officers compiled over several years.

"This statement and its implication is totally untrue," stated McDonald, adding that in 1978 there were only two complaints of police brutality.

PG&E Even Puts Shock in an Envelope

Peninsula residents shocked upon opening those little grey envelopes from PG&E have lots of company. Those who have received their bills over the past two weeks have been faced with charges up to three times what they were last year.

The Belmont and Half Moon Bay offices of the utility company have been flooded with complaints from customers. Officials expect the deluge to continue — even though complaining won't lower the bills.

High bill complaints have increased 196 percent on the Peninsula, according to PG&E spokesman Ron Rutkowski, who attributes the huge jumps in heating costs to three causes.

The cold weather has driven residential natural gas consumption up more than 50 percent this winter, he said. The 2.5 million customers in Northern and central California averaged a 52 percent hike in the use of natural gas during the coldest December in five years, and usage jumped 75 percent during the last week of the month.

"During the last 20 years," Rutkowski said, "only 1963 and 1972 had colder average temperatures in our Northern California service area. The service area extends from Bakersfield to the Oregon border, and from the Pacific Ocean to the Sierra foothills.

This higher gas usage has been coupled with a 15 percent rate hike by the utility. The Public Utilities Commission authorized the rate increases to offset higher supplier prices.

The rates also go up as consumption goes up, Rutkowski explained.

"The first 106 therms (100 cubic feet of natural gas) are charged at a rate of 16.5 cents per therm," he said. "Above that, users are charged 24.7 cents per therm — and that's quite a jump."

Customers who use unusually high levels of gas pay even more, he said, with the rate going to almost 30 cents per therm for any above 212.

The yearly average use for a residential customer is 70 therms per month, Rutkowski said. The usage will be higher for the winter months, he pointed out.

One lady in Hillsborough used 800 therms during the month of December, he reported. "Not too many average customers would go that high," he said. "It's an extreme example."

The utility bills Peninsula customers are receiving now could also represent a longer-than-usual billing period, Rutkowski said.

"Because of the holiday meter-reading schedule, December bills might include 33 days, compared to 27 or 30 days on an average bill," he explained.

Bills can be kept down, even during the cold winter months, by conservation measures, Rutkowski pointed out.

"Insulation and weather stripping can save 25 to 30 percent on natural gas costs," he said. "Keeping the thermostat at 68 instead of 72 during the day can cut 15 percent off the bill."

Those with electric heating systems are not suffering as badly as those who depend on natural gas.

Rates for electricity dropped last year because of the "better hydroelectric situation," Rutkowski said. The rains which brought an end to the drought provided the water necessary to run the hydroelectric plants. The result was three rate reductions during 1978, and another one is now before the PUC, Rutkowski explained.

Most electrically heated residences are still getting higher bills this month, though, because of the increase in usage. The percentage of the increase is not so great as that for natural gas customers, however.

The average bill on the Peninsula has nearly doubled during the current billing period. For example, a customer who used 100 therms in December of 1977 would have been billed at $15.37. Taking a 50 percent increase in usage along with the rate hikes, that same customer would be paying $29.50 for 150 therms used in December 1978.

If a customer doubled natural gas consumption from last year, the bill would be almost triple what it was then. The same customer using 200 therms last month would be opening a bill for $41.96 this month.

If you have called PG&E's local office to complain, you are not alone.

During the first two weeks in January, 778 people called to gripe about high gas and electric bills at the Belmont office, compared with 249 during the first two weeks of last year.

Half Moon Bay's office received 35 complaints, compared to 32 last year. That's an increase of 72 percent in Half Moon Bay and 212 percent in Belmont.

The complaints are not going to change the billing, however, and PG&E officials will tell those who scream about their bills to institute energy conservation measures.

Rutkowski emphasized the importance of weather stripping and insulation, along with "psychological conservation," which he described as "being willing to put on a sweater and keep the thermostat at 68."

Women's Shelter to Take Children, Too

By BILL HURSCHMANN

Quest House, a facility that for four years has aided battered women now will expand its scope to include women with children, Sister Catherine Donnelly of Quest House told the Millbrae-San Bruno Soroptimist Club Thursday.

Located in San Francisco but serving the entire Bay Area, Quest House first opened to serve as an alternative to women who were to serve prison terms. It expanded to include the battered wife, and within six months hopes to be able to serve battered wives with children.

"Domestic violence doesn't end with the wife," Sister Catherine said. "If the husband is violent, it will carry on to the children."

Sister Catherine said it indeed is true that "our children are our future. At Quest House, we will try to mitigate the trauma they have experienced as children."

She said an FBI statistic reveals that 50 percent of all wives have been battered at least once in their life, and that one-third of all murders are committed by wives killing husbands.

"Why don't women leave?" Sister Catherine asked. "Because we've been trained that the place of a woman is in the home, with the husband and children. It's our cultural and social heritage."

Also, she said, women still have difficulty existing economically, especially if they have children. There also is the fear, she added, that the husband will seek the wife, drag her home and perhaps beat her again.

Sister Catherine explained that battered wives will leave the home when either they realize the beatings are affecting the children, or when they realize they have some place to go.

"It is in this area where we hope Quest House will come in," she said of the four-year-old program.

Marina Coming Along Swimmily

The second phase of Oyster Point Marina, a $10-million-dollar development that will serve hundreds of boaters and thousands of county residents, will get under way by early spring, San Mateo County Harbor District Commissioners were told this week.

Meeting at the Oyster Point Yacht Club in South San Francisco, the commissioners heard detailed reports on work that must be completed before construction starts.

Ed Margason, soils engineer with Woodward and Clyde, soil engineering consultants on the work done to date on the breakwater, made the report.

Preliminary work is virtually complete, he said, with the 30-acre site now prepared and a concrete vertical pile breakwater built to enclose a 300-berth marina.

Contracts will now be let for roads, parking lot paving, utilities and boat berthing, later for restrooms, the harbor master's office and a fishing pier, Board President Frank Lee announced.

This is the final phase and will cost an estimated $5 million, it was indicated. The work will be started as soon as possible.

"We are moving ahead as fast as possible to combat inflation," said Ron McClellan, general manager of the district.

Design specifications are being completed by the Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall engineering firm.

The harbor master's office will be located on the prime view site of the harbor, it was said. It will be a two-story building with large windows and a deck.

McClellan said Thursday that the fishing pier will be built to take advantage of an area of deep water "where fishing should be excellent."

Even now, he said, fish are being caught off the end of the marina site, but fishermen have great difficulty with rocks and impediments.

"They may enjoy it, but they will enjoy a great deal more the fine facilities this pier will offer and the prospect of good fishing," McClellan said.

Completion of the work is hoped for by the summer of 1980. Segments of the marina will be placed in operation as soon as each section is ready, he said.

on the issues. I don't want a sympathy vote."

Asked how she views her image, Miss Speier said, "I want to be known as Leo's counsel . . . and as a member of his staff for 12 years . . . I realize that the people are the boss, and I want to serve them . . ."

Top Republican candidates include County Supervisor William "Bill" H. Royer, tax specialist David Welch (who lost to Ryan in the November general election), consultant Roger Canfield of Belmont, insuranceman Les Kelting of San Bruno, best known as a spear-carrier for Proposition 13 last year, and a frequent government critic, and Bruce Makar of San Mateo, an estate investment broker.

Ryan's family has decided to stay neutral in the election race, according to a Ryan family member.

"At this point we can't take sides," said Shannon Ryan, the 26-year-old daughter of the late congressman. "It is the fairest thing we can do."

Ms. Ryan's comments came after Miss Speier announced her candidacy.

The Ryan family decision effectively means the withdrawal of their sole endorsement last month for Holsinger, Rep. Ryan's administrative assistant.

"We are still endorsing Joe. But we are also endorsing Jackie, if that's possible," said Ms. Ryan, who is living at her father's home in Washington.

Holiday End Points Up The Passage of Time

By ARVILLE FINACOM

The Christmas tree at our house came down Jan. 15 this year. Since it went up a bare seven days before the holiday it's time for being decorated was not much longer than that of a tree set up the first of December. Actually, our tree usually stays up through Epiphany, following the old custom of Twelfth Night, which ties the Christmas holiday with the New Year.

At one time trees and household decorations weren't removed until Candlemas, celebrated Feb. 2. Of the old custom, the 17th century English poet Robert Herrick said, "Down with the Holly, Ivy, All, wherewith ye dressed the Christmas Hall." Greens then were burned and their ashes, along with those of the traditional Yule Log, scattered on the ground.

Our tree is a living one, an 18-inch-tall, 10-year-old Blue Spruce we raised from seed and which courageously supports a string of tiny lights and a multitude of miniature ornaments, and so it won't be burned. But the cut greens — canyon oak, juniper and pine — I used for table decorations already have spread warmth not only to the eye and spirit but also to the body as part of our New Year's Eve fire. And following custom, I will spread the ashes on the areas of our garden where we plan to plant our summer vegetables.

Some of the rituals I practice are the legacy of a grandmother whose eclectic attitude toward people, cultures and ceremonies led her to appropriate what she liked into her rather unconventional, highly-individual lifestyle. It continues to amuse and amaze me every time I come across something Grandma "always" did as a folk custom from a culture where she had no physical roots. Perhaps Grandma was the quintessential American — one who exemplified the cultural melding envisioned by the Founding Fathers.

But this column is not to be about my grandmother. Rather, it is about the New Year and the opportunities and challenges it presents. Anciently, the New Year was closer to the Spring Equinox, when the sun began its apparent journey back to the Northern Hemisphere. But as more and more civilized people began to move farther from the Equator into northern latitudes where depressing darkness accompanied much of the winter months, the new year was moved by decree into midwinter around the beginning of February so as to furnish a festive break from the dreary monotony of the season.

Later it was moved to its present date even closer to the solstice, although the names of the old Roman months were not changed accordingly; November and December translate to ninth and tenth month. Chinese New Year, coming this year Jan. 28, more closely approximates the earlier midwinter ritualistic setting. But regardless of its placement, the New Year signifies simply a new beginning, a convenient point on the continuing of time against which to measure events.

It has been said that many approach the new year with a certain dread. No matter when one's birthday falls, on Jan. 1 the new year begins in which we all become one year older. In a frantic search for significance, many fill the holiday season — two months, beginning with Halloween — with endless busyness and festivity, hoping to end the old year with some sense of accomplishment. But then comes Jan. 1 and the calendars stare empty. Suddenly there is a whole new year to put goals and actions into practice; many experience a sense of frustration and anger.

It's possible that this sense of frustration with the new year can be tied to our sense of mortality. There are those who carry a surprised look on their faces the day they confront death. There are others who say with almost self-defeating resignation, "Please, let me grow old gracefully." In between, is the vast bulk of us, we who fight the image, who deny the fact, who do not want to be caught growing old in a youth-idolizing and youth-oriented culture, taught by media to grimace and pout, primp and powder, think, feel and act like contemporaries of our own sons and daughters.

Perhaps one of the best books on the subject, and certainly one with focusing potential for those who face a seemingly endless succession of meaningless and empty calendar pages, is "Passages" by Gail Sheehy, a non-fiction best-seller which topped the lists for several months in the summer of 1976.

Sheehy, who subtitles her text, "Predictable Crises of Adult Life," deals with a decade-by-decade analysis of crises, enlivened through a great number of "average person" case histories, and focused around the realization of "perishability" that comes midlife.

She says, "We are not prepared for the idea that time can run out on us, or for the startling truth that if we don't hurry to pursue our own definition of a meaningful existence, life can become a repetition of menial maintenance duties."

Opportunities to volunteer are all around us. Specific tasks are as close as the telephone. The Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with headquarters in Burlingame and interviews by appointment in Daly City, is the central listing agency for volunteer jobs locally. Anyone may request to be listed on a "time available" basis. In some instances skills training is conducted by groups requesting volunteers so that "no experience" is not a criteria. Many volunteer jobs wait only for those with time and a willing spirit. Call 342-0801, the Burlingame office, or 992-0957, the North County number.

As one who has volunteered since my teens, I count my chief reward in knowing I "make a difference." And perhaps, that's what the new year is all about — leaving a meaningful mark on no longer empty calendar pages.

FORDS FOR THE WAY

Great for business. More handling ease than last year lets you really enjoy the business of driving. Power steering, power front disc brakes, Dura-spark electronic ignition, Select-shift cruise-o-matic transmission and steel radials are just a few of the notable standard features that make LTD a great American road car.

Great for pleasure. Inside, the new LTD is designed with more passenger room and more driver convenience than ever before. It means added comfort for even the longest trips.

Roomy enough to be an ideal family car. And for even more room, check out the LTD Country Squire Wagon.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

A time to diet and a time not to diet.

Last week I told you readiness is all when it comes to dieting. Equally important is recognizing a time when you shouldn't diet.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

The idea of combining spaghetti and cabbage was a new one to me, so when I tested the following recipe I went about it with a feeling of anticipation as to how the combination would work. I'm happy to report that it worked just fine, making a delicious dish.

SPAGHETTI AND GREENS

- 3/4 cup spaghetti, broken into one-inch pieces
- 1 1/2 tablespoons margarine
- 1 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 pound cheddar cheese grated (about one cup)
- 2 cups shredded cabbage
- 1/2 cup fresh coarse bread crumbs

The best advice about weight loss at these times is to keep your overeating to a minimum. Learn a little about calories so you can choose lower-caloried nibbles. That way you'll avoid adding to the burden.

Make it a point to give yourself other than food activities. This may be the time when you least feel like getting out and doing something, but force it. See friends, go to a movie, take more frequent walks.

Once you feel the stress let up, think about your diet. You'll bring to the project immense enthusiasm and all the energy you've bottled up during your recent crisis.

The Houston doctor does not mean that you forego dieting altogether. He means that you wait until you can succeed.

Cook the 3/4-cup broken spaghetti in boiling water. Drain well.

In a small pan melt the one and one-half tablespoons each butter, stir in the one and one-half tablespoons flour and half-teaspoon salt and allow mixture to bubble together over medium heat. Add the one cup of milk gradually, stirring and cook until sauce is smooth. Add the cup grated cheddar cheese and stir until cheese is melted and sauce again smooth.

In one and one-half quart greased casserole place alternate layers of spaghetti and shredded cabbage. Pour cheese sauce over top; saute the half-cup bread crumbs in one tablespoon and sprinkle over top of casserole; cover. Bake in 350-degree oven for 40 minutes, remove cover for last 15 minutes of baking. Serves four.

Once more, I'm back to readiness. When you're ready, I'll be here with weekly hints and recipes. Speaking of recipes, here's one for today.

SEAFOOD CASSEROLE

- 6 oz. canned salmon
- 6 oz. tuna (water packed)
- 3 oz. American cheese
- 1 cup canned mushrooms, drained
- 1/4 cup green pepper, diced
- 1/4 teaspoon celery salt
- 1 teaspoon dried onion flakes

- 1/2 teaspoon Italian herb seasoning
- 1/4 cup red pimientos, cut small

Mix all ingredients together with fork. Place in one quart baking dish. Sprinkle paprika on top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20-25 minutes.

If you've got a personal diet problem that seems insoluble, why not write to me? I'll give you my best advice. Just send a letter with a self-addressed stamped envelope for a reply to: The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116. I'm ready when you are.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Licatas Continue Tradition of Past

NINA LICATA, owner of VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, and son-manager TONY, carry on the tradition of consideration for comfort and dining satisfaction, which has made this San Mateo spot a steady habit among local business people and Peninsula residents. You're never pressured to "wait in the bar" on a busy night, such as Friday. However, it's nice to know that there is a cozy lounge where you can enjoy a libation if you like ... L'AUVERGNE, an epicurean French restaurant, continues to maintain its proud reputation for excellence. Owner LOUIS FRUTSCHI and Maitre d' Eddie Woodford are recognized by those who seek out this popular Redwood City restaurant for its superb haute cuisine as outstanding in their professions ... Convenience is the keynote at GONG'S Chinese restaurant, South San Francisco. Owner JOHN CHIANG puts less emphasis on frills and more concern on quality, promptness, and completeness of menu and service ... THE BUNKER restaurant, located at Cypress Hills Golf Course, will have a "Day at the Races" on Saturday, Jan. 27. $25 includes round-trip bus transportation, cocktails on the bus, Bay Meadows turf club admission, lunch at private tables for the day, and dinner (wine included) on your return to The Bunker. Make early reservations.

QUICK WIT

Lori Shannon, comedienne extraordinaire and one of Archie Bunker's favorite female impersonators, delights audiences at Finocchio's with his saucy mannerisms and endless gift of gab in four fun-filled shows nightly, except Mondays and Thursdays.

All-You-Can-Eat Wed. Night Special

For a real "gemutlich" atmosphere, try TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT German restaurant in Moss Beach. It's really easy and quick to reach, via Highway 92 or 380, from anywhere on the Peninsula. If you like ample amounts of good food, make it on a Wednesday evening, when Owner-cook TILLIE SCHOLTZ features a special family-style all-you-can-eat dinner for only $4.29 ... A super spot for watching the Super Bowl football game is the BAYHILL LOUNGE, Bayhill Shopping Center, San Bruno. As a special convenience for their many loyal patrons and because they're big football fans, Owners MEL CICERO and HARRY CURUSIS will open at 11 a.m. this Sunday and offer a special buffet. Be sure to catch the dance action on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights when the new group, INDEED, entertains from 9 p.m. ... When you look over the menu at ROMANO'S intimate restaurant in Rockaway Beach, you'll be surprised at the range and diversity of Italian and seafood offerings. From a plate of spaghetti to Abalone Dore Supreme with asparagus, ENRICO ROMANO wants his customers to have a choice of many regular items as well as specialties. Tumulto Amoro a la Romano (broiled prawns, mushrooms, bell peppers, and onions, served on a bed of risotto rice) is bella, bella!

Mixologist Fluent In Five Languages

George Biester, ace mixologist at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is never at a loss for words in any language. George is fluent in five languages — English, German, French, Russian — and Latin ... When you learn that some of the key people in a restaurant have been there for a long time, it tells you something reassuring about the restaurant. At NICK'S in Rockaway Beach, there are three key people whose time totals 63 years, and whose loyalty is appreciated by Owners NICK and LORRAINE GUST and son CHUCK. Mary Diehl, with 26 years, started out cooking and is now in charge of the pantry (salads, fruit dishes, vegetables, etc.); Marty Gochanour, with 15 years, former bar manager now general manager, and Albert Myrberg, with 22 years, who is head chef. The Gust complex also includes THE MOONRAKER for elegant continental cuisine, and CAPTAIN CHARLES for gourmet seafood.

"BORDELLO," Garr Nelson's spicy production appearing in the Silver Dollar Showroom at HAROLDS CLUB, has violated all previously existing rules for Nevada stage shows. Gone is the traditional stage barrier. Here cast members use cocktail tables, floor space and laps as integral parts of the stage. Continuity is maintained throughout the one-hour performance by the bordello's well-endowed madam, MAGGIE MONTGOMERY. THE WALLY JONES TRIO backs up the cast of six in three shows nightly, except Mondays ... The big "B" in BARNEY'S stands for "Bountiful" and "Bargains." This popular club-casino in South Lake Tahoe offers bountiful slots and games for "Fun the Nevada Way" and bargain food specials, like the Pancakes and Sausage Breakfast for only 99 cents. You'll also discover a Ham-n-Egg Breakfast Special at the nearby SOUTH LAKE NUGGET, along with plenty of Nevada action. Also extra bargains for gaming and dining when you pick up Barney's free coupons at any of several locations on the drive up, such as CINDY'S restaurant in Davis ... ARETHA FRANKLIN, considered by many to be the first lady of soul, opens a five-day engagement in the South Shore Room at HARRAH'S TAHOE Jan. 26. DON RICKLES and BERT CONNY continue through Jan. 25 ... GLEN CAMPBELL continues to entertain audiences in the Headliner Room of HARRAH'S RENO through Jan. 30.

COMMENT

Ask someone linked to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District who's to blame for the overcharges of customers amounting to $400,000 and you see fingers pointed in umpteen directions.

The district's directors blamed the district manager, David Gehre, who lost his job during the hairpulling month of November, when the extent of the problem came to light.

Gehre later turned around and accused the directors of making him their scapegoat.

The directors also blamed the outside consulting firm of Resources, Engineering and Management for failing to inform them of their innovative method of calculating the bills.

And REM said the NCSDD directors had been adequately informed of the billing process all along.

Finally, the directors began puffing out their chests and admitting that the buck stopped with them. One director, county Supervisor James Fitzgerald, gave up his seat after 17 years on the board.

Deciding to issue refund checks immediately was a safe way to wiggle out of the dilemma and keep the voters happy.

But the directors failed to mention who is going to pay for the costs that resulted from the overbilling. Estimates as high as $100,000 to have a firm recalculate all the sewer bills and issue refunds.

The 20 hours that REM spent (at $30 per hour) trying to sort out the mess and an additional 20 hours (at $15 to $18 per hour) that the company spent adjusting the bills of customers who complained.

The $3,000 to $4,000 that accountant Richard Dwyer figures he will charge the district for the time his company spent analyzing the problem;

The $18,000 to $20,000 annual salary that the directors voted to pay a new finance director, whose first assignment will be to straighten out the bills;

The additional $3,390 per year that the district pays its new manager, Peter Archuleta, who replaced Gehre.

Add it all up and you find that the district may have to shell out as much as $130,000 — nearly $6 for every household — to correct the overbilling problem.

In prior years, the directors would have been hard-pressed to explain such a hefty expense. But they're lucky this year. The cost will be offset by a $340,000 windfall that the district expects to receive from property taxes.

Ultimately, it is the innocent citizen who will wind up paying for outrageous bungling by the district that would have gone undetected were it not for a handful of alert neighbors.

The Gamesman Game Changes

By RICHARD C. MOON

During the past few years the game scene has been changing. While there is still a large number of new, creative, conventional board games marketed yearly, there has been a growing trend toward electronic and computer-based games. Many of these new products are quite good and have met with enthusiastic public approval. Others have been of lesser quality and probably will not stand the test of time.

One electronic game that has a lot to offer is P.E.G.S. (Parker Electronic Game System). Designed by Parker Brothers, the game is for two players aged 7 to 14. P.E.G.S. is really a game full of games — actually 15 of them — which vary in degree of difficulty. They all are played on a simple playing unit which is a two-sided grid that stands vertically between the two players.

The playing pieces are orange pegs and yellow markers. The grid is made up of six rows and six columns. The rows are lettered A through F and the columns are numbered one through six. The point where a row meets a column is called a location. There are 36 locations on the grid.

This simple unit, which requires only a 9-volt battery to operate, is the basis for a world of fun. Some of the games are easy; some are more difficult but they all require players to think, formulate strategy and make use of memory. For this reason all of the games in P.E.G.S. have an educational benefit. They encourage children to exercise their minds and develop their mental skills.

Here is an example of one of the simple games, called Free-For-All. The object of the game is to end up with more pegs on the grid than your opponent.

Players take turns inserting one orange peg at a time on their side of the grid. If they place a peg in the same location as their opponent's peg, an electronic alarm will sound and the player who is placing the peg must remove it at once. If no alarm sounds the peg can remain in the grid.

The game continues until four alarms are sounded in succession. When this happens, each of the players counts the pegs on his side of the grid and the player with the most pegs is the winner.

As mentioned, the games vary in complexity. Five games are designed for beginners, five for intermediate players and five are specifically for advanced level competitors.

There are games with intriguing titles such as "Rapid Transit," "Hostage," and "Space Attack," and games with familiar names, such as "Tic Tac Toe," "Leap Frog," Football and Soccer.

For the truly creative individual, P.E.G.S. offers the opportunity to invent more games. The possibilities are almost endless.

There are many fine electronic games on the market but for players aged 7 to 14, P.E.G.S. is an offering that will prove difficult to beat.

City Hall Remodeling Colma Seeks Estimates

The Colma City Council voted Thursday to request estimates on remodeling the City Hall on El Camino Real.

City Engineer Edwin Smith said preliminary reports indicate that $90,000 to $100,000 in refurbishing and $10,000 in termite work must be done in order to repair the 47-year-old Spanish style building.

Councilman Fred Garbini said he believes it is important to restore the City Hall.

But Mayor Raymond Ottoboni favors looking at alternative ideas before spending money on repairs. He said the city is looking into the idea of buying eight acres of land from Woodlawn Cemetery.

Ottoboni said inadequate parking at the present City Hall is one of the biggest problems. His car recently was smashed when it was parked in front of the building.

(Dave Dornias Photos)

TIGHT SQUEEZE

Parking around Colma's City Hall is limited and may get worse if a K-Mart store is built across the street.

CROWDED IN

Frances Liston, city clerk of Colma, has plenty of papers and nowhere to put them. The fact that Colma may soon outgrow its offices is one reason the City Council may decide to build a new City Hall.

CHOMP, CHOMP

Colma City Councilman Fred Garbini points to one of the test points where termite inspectors looked for signs of infestation. They found that the little critters have done $10,000 worth of damage so far.

'Silver Reminisce' Tickets Going on Sale

Tickets for Silver Reminisce, the fashion show and luncheon being sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, will be sold Saturday, between 10 a.m. and noon in the parish hall, according to Mrs. Shirley McKee, who handles the publicity.

A first-come, first-served basis will be observed for table reservations.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the annual show, which will be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

To add luster to the anniversary event, the WCW has arranged to have Dennis Day appear as the special guest entertainer.

Persons desiring tickets are urged to be on hand at 10 a.m. to assure tickets as the event is considered a sure sell-out.

Mrs. Michael Nevin and Mrs. Harry Quinn are the co-chairmen.

BUSY DAYS just around the corner for members of the Beta Sigma Alpha chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority.

The women have been chosen hostesses for this weekend's Bay Peninsula Regional Council meeting and luncheon.

Twenty chapters will be represented.

Mrs. Dorothy Vanek, president of the local chapter, has selected "Winter Wonderland" as the decoration theme and has appointed Mrs. Kay Huckaby chairwoman of the decoration committee.

MRS. HARRIET McCawley, vice president of the Western Women's Bank, will speak at the Lovola

Louanne Heath

Guild's meeting Feb. 2 at 1:45 p.m. in the Lounge Center at the University of San Francisco.

Mrs. Fred Perata, the publicity chairwoman, reports that the talk by Mrs. McCawley will be followed by a tea.

Mrs. Robert Simpson, chairman of the guild's annual rummage sale, notes that the sale will be March 7 in the Hall of Flowers at Golden Gate Park. Residents who plan to donate new or used items should contact her.

Proceeds are earmarked for scholarships at St. Ignatius College

Preparatory or the University of San Francisco.

NEWS OF another rummage sale — this one in February — comes from Mrs. Dianne Leonetti, the publicity director of the Holy Angels Women's Guild.

The sale, Feb. 3, in the Parish Hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma, will feature a large selection of clothing, furniture jewelry, toys, shoes, and household goods.

Persons planning to donate clean, usable items, should contact the sale chairwoman, Mrs. Pat Fonti, Feb. 1 or 2 between 10 a.m. or the items may be taken to the parish hall Jan. 31, Feb. 1 or 2 between 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

FORMER Daly City Community Chorus director, Patti Parks Stolz McClain, was in town renewing friendships with the Jim Madden family and others during the holidays.

Mrs. McClain, who is the curator of the Museum of Vintage Fashions at Dinkelspiel House on the Duns-muir House Grounds in Oakland, reports that she will be appearing on the KGO-TV program, Bay Area Woman, in the near future to plug the opening of the museum's latest show, Reflections of Vanity Fair.

The executive board of the Balboa Alumni Association has set its next business session for Feb. 15.

The president, Mrs. Emily Sum-rall, will welcome the board to her home for the gathering.

The next major fund-raising event planned by the group is the annual Night at the Races on May 5. Tickets will go on sale in April at $12 per person.

12 File in Race For Ryan's Post

Despite the number of "maybe" candidates and related hoopla, there are but 12 hopefuls for the 11th Congressional District seat left vacant by the murder of Rep. Leo J. Ryan.

Eight others who had initiated various steps with the County Clerk's Office as potential candidates failed to follow through by Monday's 5 p.m. deadline. Two others will not be certified because they failed to qualify their nominating papers.

Add to that the number of persons, many of them city councilmen from various cities, who announced along the way that they were considering running but changed their minds, and there were as many as 30 possible candidates mentioned since Ryan was gunned down in Guyana last November in an action which triggered the Peoples Temple murder-suicide of more than 900 men, women and children.

County Clerk Marvin Church said that if a candidate receives 50 percent plus one of the vote on March 6, then he or she will win the seat.

If a majority is not won, a runoff is scheduled for April 3 between the highest vote-getter in each party.

The Democratic candidates are: • George Corey of Millbrae, an attorney and longtime friend of Ryan's. Corey is a former San Bruno mayor.

• G. W. "Joe" Holsinger of Foster City, Ryan's congressional aide for four years.

• Curtiss A. Landers of Pacifica, a school board member.

• Charles T. "Toby" Plough III of San Mateo, a businessman who unsuccessfully tried to unseat Ryan in last June's Democratic primary.

• Jackie Speier of Burlingame, Ryan's congressional legal counsel. Miss Speier, who accompanied Ryan on his fact-finding mission of the Peoples Temple, was wounded in the gunfire which killed Ryan and four others.

The Republican candidates are: • Les Kelting of San Bruno, an insurance man and a key leader in the pro-Proposition 13 forces in San Mateo County.

• Bruce Makar of San Mateo, a businessman.

• William Royer of Redwood City, a six-year member of the County Board of Supervisors.

• David Welch of San Bruno, a tax pension manager. Ryan handily defeated Welch in the November 1978 general election.

• Carrying the American Independent Party banner is Nicholas W. Kudrovzeff of Pacifica, a director in electrical construction.

• Running under the Peace and Freedom banner is Wilson G. Branch of San Mateo, a retired union officer.

Daniel Fallon of South San Francisco, who was trying to run as a non-partisan, came up 48 petition signatures shy to qualify his nomination.

Nancy Jewell Cross of Menlo Park, a frequent candidate for many offices in San Mateo County, did not pay her filing fee, Church said.

Body Found Near School

The body of a 28-year-old South San Francisco man, missing since Jan. 18, was found early Sunday stabbed in the back, in the trunk of a Buick Riviera parked in the parking lot of Knolls School, 42nd Avenue, San Mateo, police reported.

He was identified as Steve R. Hubbard of 847 Camaritas St., South San Francisco, son of Mrs. Joan Perez of San Francisco, by the San Mateo County coroner's office, which was conducting an autopsy today.

Det. Sgt. Larry Weissel of the San Mateo Police Department said the victim had a knife wound in the back but that determination of cause of death awaited the post mortem examination. Neighborhood youths found the body, police said.

Weissel said that Hubbard was reported missing by a friend in South San Francisco. He said that a full investigation is underway.

TV Boss Tells Chamber: 'Best Shows Rate Lower'

Television's best shows are generally the ones with the poorest ratings, Russ Coughlin, vice president and general manager of KGO-TV, told the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

Although he arrived an hour and 15 minutes late, the tall, silver-haired man kept about 100 persons glued in their chairs for 65 minutes as he freely discussed the inner turmoil he feels about trying to make a profit while serving the public's best interests.

Coughlin, a former Daly City resident, said he is proudest of a documentary that his station produced on the problems of the elderly in San Francisco's Tenderloin.

It won many awards, drew 750,000 letters and was the catalyst for the passage of federal legislation to aid seniors, but Coughlin said it garnered only 8 percent of the audience on the night it was aired.

Coughlin said that experience convinced him that it's important sometimes to ignore the ratings, at the expense of advertising dollars, in order to serve the public with similar in-depth reports. He said his station is working on a documentary detailing the problems of youth.

He readily admitted the limitations of television.

"The best thing we can do is chronicle the day's events," he said, voicing despair at one survey he'd heard about in which 60 percent of the public said they depend on television for all of their news.

"My God, don't people read books, newspapers and magazines anymore?" he wondered aloud.

D.C. Airman Now a TSgt.

Sub Coach Leads Skyline

By RICK EYMER

Skyline College's basketball team heard the news an hour before it was to take the floor against visiting Menlo College in a Coast Conference crucial Saturday night.

Trojan Coach Lyle Newcomer would not be able to coach.

"I called him at 4:30 p.m. and he said he was going to be here," said Don Lippi, the man who filled in for Newcomer. "But I got a call back a few minutes later and he said he couldn't stand up."

Athletic Director Walt Rilliet explained, "Newcomer has the flu and an eye infection. He was running a temperature of 103 and was sick to his stomach."

Skyline still managed to pull out a 46-43 victory, raising its Coast record to 3-1 and a tie for second place with Cabrillo.

"I've seen him coach with strep throat, and where he was barely walking," said Cecilia Newcomer, Lyle's wife. "He doesn't miss a game unless he can't even crawl."

The Trojans were anything but sick, however, and took advantage of Menlo's defensive lapses to work a fast break that erased the Oaks' control of the tempo.

The Oaks were ranked third by the JC Athletic Bureau in Division II and Skyline was fifth. The pair of schools have kept the Coast title in San Mateo County for the past seven years. It was a game that smacked of importance.

Menlo took early command of the game. The Oaks ran a VERY patient offensive game trying to force Skyline out of its zone. But the Trojans would have nothing to do with it, preferring to lay back and wait for Menlo.

"It was a typical Menlo game," explained Lippi, who coaches at St. Joseph's High in the East Bay and was an assistant to Newcomer last year. "They wanted us to come out after them, but we didn't. We weren't playing that well on offense anyway and we had a couple of guys with two fouls. I thought we were very fortunate to be so close at half-time (Menlo led 17-16) as it was."

Skyline came out in the second half with a full-court press. It prevented Menlo from holding the ball for any length of time and the Trojans were able to run their fast break. Reggie Love and Joe Belfrey each canned a bucket off the break early in the second half to give Skyline an eight-point advantage.

"We made a few mistakes on our coverage and their quickness hurt us," said Oak mentor Bud Presley. "And we couldn't get them to extend their defense."

Menlo continued to look for a high percentage shot, however, and kept coming back, getting within two on a Mike Santos layup with 2:15 left. But that was the closest the Oaks would come as Nate Broussard and Rick Lundgren each canned one-on-one free throws down the stretch.

"This team played as well as any Menlo club can play. I've never been more proud of a team," said Presley. "We played well. We did everything that we could possibly do except win."

"They know our basic offense," said Lippi, "and we were only average in our execution of it; while they were above average in their defense of it. We had to use special plays to make our offense work."

Newcomer's absence didn't seem to bother his team much. Love said, "When we knew he wasn't going to be there, it just made us want to win more. I knew we could beat them if we just ran our stuff."

And Lippi? "I was really excited. I wanted the challenge and was confident enough to do it. I am familiar with the system here anyway (though he hadn't seen Skyline play in over a month) and we went over notes together," he said.

Brad Levesque and Louis Reynaud each scored 11 points to pace the Trojans, while Marvin Penner and Kevin Flaig had 12 each for Menlo. The Trojans outrebounded Menlo 19-8 in gaining their 21st straight win at home. Menlo is now 2-2 in the Coast.

Both teams came into the game with highly rated defenses. Menlo was ranked second in Division II at 57.7 a game and Skyline was third at 62.6.

Skyline takes a week off before it visits Hartnell, current Coast leader, on Saturday night. Menlo will host Monterey Peninsula on the same night. Both games are slated for 7:30 starts.

No Jeff Letdown, Thanks to Oller

By CHUCK BUSTILLOS

His team was coming off an emotional last-second victory over Westmoor High, so Jefferson High basketball coach Bud Bresnahan was worried that his club would suffer a letdown in Friday night's encounter with cellar-dwelling Half Moon Bay.

There was no sign of any letdown. And Bresnahan can thank steady-shooting Jefferson guard Bob Oller for that.

Oller was the hero in the 60-58 crucial win over the Rams last Wednesday, and the guard picked up right where he left off in that game, as he poured in a game-high 25 points and paced the way to an easy 79-56 win over the Cougars in Half Moon Bay.

Jefferson remained atop the NPL with an unblemished 7-0 mark while HMB dropped another notch to 1-6. In the first half, it appeared that star forward Darryl Jackson would single-handedly destroy Half Moon Bay. He hexed the Cougars into turnovers and glided smoothly down the court, scoring with an array of different types of shots. Jackson had 12 at the half, but could only add another pair of field goals in the second half; he had foul problems.

Enter Oller. Although there were never any serious comeback threat, any time Half Moon Bay did something good, Oller would bury a 20-foot baseline jumper to curb the cheers.

Burly Jeff guard Richard Rogers instigated many HMB mistakes and scored 19 points. Six-foot-five HMB center John Parsons connected for a team-high 24 points and dominated the boards. Cougar forward Craig Warner added 11 points.

Pedro, Belli Pace TN

By MIKE FICHER

The key to beating the Terra Nova High basketball squad is to contain high scoring forward Rich Belli, right? Wrong.

"Every team in the league knows that the key to beating us is to stop Mike Pedro," Tiger Coach Gary Johnson contends. "When he comes to play and plays well, we play well."

The 6-5 center came to play against South San Francisco Friday, and his effort combined with a season-high 30 points from the irreplaceable Belli gave the Tigers an impressive 78-63 victory over the stubborn Warriors.

"Pedro did a good job on the offensive boards, he shut off the baseline and played good defense.

Rich Belli just turned in another superb performance," said Johnson.

"We played our game," Belli said. "We didn't rush the ball. We can play a fast game, but it helped us that we were able to slow the pace down. We didn't want them to break, so we slowed it down."

The strategy worked as the Tigers, making effective use of Pedro's size and mobility to pass inside the zone, outscored South City 24-12 in the second quarter. Pedro tallied 10 of his 13 points in the decisive period.

Regents Victorious Over Sharks

By JOE RODRIGUEZ
Times Correspondent
Serramonte High reaped the benefits of a team basketball effort Friday night en route to a 84-54 thrashing of Oceana.

The Regents placed three players in double figures, and their quick transition from offense to defense enabled them to dominate the backboards.

After a tightly played initial stanza, which ended tied at 16-16, Serramonte's high-powered offense went into full gear thanks to a tenacious defense which allowed the visiting Sharks only one shot, often a 20-footer per possession.

The Regents' control of the boards in the second quarter ignited their running game, which saw them outscore Oceana 24-6 and take a comfortable 40-22 lead into halftime.

Serramonte Coach Rick Warner credited the victory to team play and the ability of ace scorer Ricky Mixon to give up the ball.

When he wasn't passing off for five assists or skying for nine rebounds, Mixon had enough free time to lead all scorers with 26 points, eight coming in the decisive second period.

Rams Run Past Camino

By MARK GEYER

Westmoor High basketball coach Tony Giammona doesn't have to worry about depending on just one or two guys to do the scoring for his North Peninsula League contenders.

The proof was in the pudding Friday night when Westmoor landed four starters in double figures as the runnin' Rams dusted host El Camino 82-67.

Guard Tony Limutau led the balanced Westmoor attack, driving through the porous Colt zone at will and ending with 20 points. Frontliners Troy Williams and Sheldon Scott collected 17 and 16 respectively while Derrick Johnson chipped in 12.

The Rams' win kept them close to NPL-leading Jefferson, improving their record to 5-2. El Camino dropped to 2-5.

Although the Colts kept it close in the early going, Westmoor controlled the boards and ran a devastating fast break. The Rams ran off 10 straight to end the first quarter and led by as much as 21 just before the half.

Junior center Mike Bigham led a mild Colt comeback in the third quarter, picking up several of his 18 points. But a Westmoor surge highlighted by two Troy Williams' dunks ran the El Camino deficit to 28 by the end of the period.

Jeff Booters Upend Tigers

Jefferson High's soccer team took the inside track toward the North Peninsula League championship Friday when the visiting Indians lifted their NPL record to 3-1 with an exciting 1-0 victory over previously unbeaten Terra Nova.

In another NPL match Friday, Half Moon Bay topped visiting Serramonte 2-0 to up its NPL slate to 2-1.

Girls' Basketball Mustang Front Line Stops San Mateo

Realizing that all its opponents were keying on their high-scoring guards, Capuchino High got the basketball to center Jamie Maule and forward Francine Harvey with orders to shoot, and the pair responded with 28 points to push the Mustangs past San Mateo 56-31 to top Mid-Peninsula League girls' basketball action Friday.

Harvey went 6-for-10 from the floor and keyed the Capuchino defense that harried the Bearcats into a poor shooting night (13-for-73, 18 percent).

Kim Jacklich, a 5-9 freshman, gave Capuchino strength on the boards, something the smallish Mustangs have been lacking in recent games, when she picked off a team-high 13 rebounds.

Elsewhere in the MPL, Crestmoor center Tisa Wagner came out blazing in the second half with 18 of her 22 points to propel the league-leading Falcons past upset-minded Burlingame, 52-41. The Panthers loss spoiled a fine performance by Burlingame forward-guard Aileen Murray, who canned 28 points.

Burlingame only had five players. Mills proved that it will be the team to watch when the second half of league play begins next week; the Vikings tripped Aragon 37-31, behind 19 points by the Vikes' Chris Radel.

Terra Nova's smooth-shooting Becky Myers, the County's top scorer, pumped in a season-high 33 points as the Tigers crushed the latest challenger to their top-rated North Peninsula League standing, beating South San Francisco 72-25 at Pacifica.

Myers, who is shooting 58 percent from the floor in NPL play, was aided by 14 rebounds and five assists from forward Marianne Juergens. Center Terri Campbell's 14 points and 17 boards helped give the Tigers a 52-36 rebounding edge.

Jackie Determan turned in her best performance of the year and was supported by 15 points from Dawn Prince, to lead El Camino to a 60-59 upset win over Westmoor, Daly City.

Giants Showed Well in Final NL Stats

All of the final, "official" major league baseball statistics for 1978 finally have dribbled out of the league offices. Following are some of the more interesting and surprising (to me) stats:

Milwaukee's 3.67 team ERA was only the ninth best in the American League, yet the staff led the majors in shutouts with 19, led by former Giants southpaw Mike Caldwell, who threw six blanks.

The Giants and Houston had the best NL shutout mark with 17. Strangely, Houston had only the eight best staff ERA in the National League.

The giants were the only team in the NL to have more than one starter in the top 10 in ERA, and they had three — Bob Knepper (Fourth, 2.63), Vida Blue (seventh, 2.79) and Ed Halicki (ninth, 2.83). The three pitchers who had lower ERA's than Knepper pitched considerably fewer innings than Knepper's 260. Leader Craig Swan of the Mets (2.43) pitched 207; Steve Rogers, Montreal (2.47), was in 219 innings; and the Cardinals' Pete Vuckovich (2.55), hurled just 198.

Only the Dodgers and San Diego had lower team ERAs than the Giants (and not by much), and there were good reasons for it, mainly because the Giants shone in two key though not highly-publicized areas of pitching — walks and home runs allowed. Only San Diego allowed fewer homers (74) than the Giants (84) and only the Dodgers and Phillies gave up fewer walks. In the AL, only Texas and Milwaukee gave up fewer free passes. And for those of you who like the really esoteric pitching stats, only the Dodgers had fewer NL balks than the Giants, barely edging out our guys, eight to nine.

Another piece of pitching esoterica. The Cubs were the only National League club to give up more hits than innings pitched.

More, still more. Dodger relief pitcher Terry Forster must be the most seldom used, best hitting pitcher in baseball. Last season he hit .500 (4-for-8), and was a career major league batting average of .424 (25-for-59).

To put into perspective just one little part of what the Yankees' Ron Guidry did, consider the following. The National League had 13 pitchers with ERAs below 3.00, Swan, of course, having the lowest at 2.43. The American League, which must contend with designated hitters, thus having one less soft spot in the lineup, had only eight pitchers below 3.00. The lowest ERA, aside from Guidry's, was Jon Matlack's 2.30. Yet Guidry, pitching against those DH's, had a 1.74 ERA, more than half a run lower than his nearest opponent in the AL, and about three-fourths of a run lower than the closest man to him in the NL. Remarkable.

The whole Yankee season, especially its pitching, was remarkable. For example, no less than 17 pitchers made appearances for the Yankees at some time during the season. We continually are told that a pitching staff needs continuity. Yet the Yankees had more different pitchers pitching for them than any team in the majors. They didn't just bring kids up at the tag-end of the season for a look-see. Because of all the disabled Yankee hurlers, young replacements weren't getting look-sees, but were pitching in important games. But on the otherhand, maybe Guidry was continuity enough.

Overall, though, the Yankees couldn't match the A's for roster numbers during the regular season. Though the A's ran "only" 14 pitchers through the Coliseum, they played a major league-leading 28 "position" players — 42 men total.

I've contended for several years now that the determination of leading relief pitchers by the total of their wins and saves alone often presents distortions, because their losses and/or games they failed to save are not taken into consideration. Although statistics aren't available as to how many games relief pitchers failed to save, their losses are. So, for what it's worth, following is a list of the top relief pitchers in both leagues in 1978, in the order of their official ratings, with their net points (wins and saves minus losses) in parentheses:

National League — Rollie Fingers (30), Kent Tekulve (32), Doug Bair (29), Bruce Sutter (25), Gene Garber (28).

American League — Rich Gossage (26), Dave LaRoach (26), Don Stanhouse (21), Mike Marshall (19), John Hiller (20), Al Hrabosky (21), Elias Sosa (20).

That take care of pitching. Now some slugging records. For one thing, the Giants weren't as anemic as they were painted to be. They were sixth in the NL in team slugging average, fourth in walks, and eight teams struck out more than they did. And Jack Clark was fourth in the league in individual slugging (.537) behind only Dave Parker (.585), Reggie Smith (.559) and George Foster (.546), and ahead of such established sluggers as Jeff Burroughs, Greg Luzinski, Steve Garvey, Ted Simmons, Dave Winfield and Ellis Valentine.

As great a year as Parker had, Jim Rice almost made him look anemic with his .600 SA. The closest to Rice in the AL was Larry Hise, with a .533.

Putting Giants' slugging in better perspective, the "powerful" Yankees also were only sixth in their league in slugging, with Milwaukee and Boston easily leading the AL in that category.

Speaking of slugging, Roy Smalley had an unusual year for a shortstop, or for any hitter, for that matter. He led Minnesota in home runs (19) and walks (85), but also in sacrifice bunts (23) and sacrifice flies (seven).

And speaking of the sacrifice fly, is it over-rated? Parker had only two of them. But then if you get enough hits with men on third base, you just naturally won't hit as many sacrifice flies.

Slugging, or relative lack of it, also might explain why the Dodgers weren't able to put the capper on the Yankees. In 1977, you may remember, they set a record with four players hitting 30 or more home runs. In '78, only three made the 20 plateau.

How about combination slugging and speed? Nine of the top 10 NL hitters stole bases in double figures last season, and 12 of the top 15 did it.

Bobby Bonds, who four times reached the 30-30 mark (at least 20 homers, 30 stolen bases), also holds the all-time record for highest total of both in a single season. That would be 1973, when he was with the Giants who had 82; 39 homers, 43 stolen bases. He had the 39 HRs about a month before the season was over, and never could hit that one more which would have made him the only 40-40 player in history. Other 30-30 men were Hank Aaron (44-31, 1963), Willie Mays (36-40, 1956), and 35-38, 1957), Tommy Harper (31-38, 1970) and Ken Williams (39-37, 1922).

Ramblings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

For many Westmoor High school clubs and organizations the past few weeks have meant a lot of hard work and effort to put on their many events.

One of the busiest departments has been the Music Department. Last night the Stage Band and Dixieland Band performed in the Little Theater under the theme of "Jazz '79." This is the same Dixieland band which received a Superior rating at the Reno Jazz Festival last year.

Student leaders Colin Price and Babbie Freiberg directed some of the selections which included "Prime Time," "Fast Forward," and "The Raven Speaks," all sounds made for big bands. Also featured was music from "Star Wars," with electronic drums. Amy Johnson, one of Westmoor's finest singers, also performed. All money raised went to help defray the band's expenses for its annual Reno trip.

The Department also had a Music Marathon for 20 continuous hours from 4 p.m., Jan. 19 to noon, Jan. 20. The whole event was sponsored by TEMPO, The (E)nvolved Music Parents Organization. The Concert Band, Stage Band, Dixieland Band, solos and ensembles were among the features musical bands. Amy Johnson, the same singer who performed at the Jazz '79 Concert, also sang.

These dedicated students auditioned for the Jefferson Union High School District Honor Band at Terra Nova High School. Twenty-one of the 23 were selected to play in the 54-member band. These include, on the flute, Diane Carroll, Leti Turnbull, and Joann McGowan; oboe, Babbie Freiberg; clarinet, Nancy Hammill (first chair), Nancy Widfeldt, Anneli Loeffler, Sandy Terrell, and Sonia Ennawwal, bass clarinet, John Lau; alto sax, Becky Nickolson, first, and Cliff Cormier, second; tenor sax, Christina Loeffler (first chair); trumpet, Maurice Lowe, Simon Lee, Henry Braa and Jim Carroll; trombone, Colin Price first and Ralph Rechnitz second; percussion section, Yvonne Fleuhr (lead); French horn, Scott Dickerman.

This band will go to the Santa Cruz mountain area for a two-day camp and rehearse for the two days under the direction of Gordon Lowe. They then will present a concert for their parents March 24 at 7 p.m. The band will use the facilities at the Mt. Cross Bible Camp at Felton.

Although the date is unknown, this band is scheduled to perform for the general public either in Daly City or Pacifica. I would like to extend my heartiest congratulations to all of those students who made Honor Band and those who tried their best but weren't selected. Keep up the good work.

Games Scene Changes

By RICHARD C. MOON

During the past few years the game scene has been changing. While there is still a large number of new, creative, conventional board games marketed yearly, there has been a growing trend toward electronic and computer-based games. Many of these new products are quite good and have met with enthusiastic public approval. Others have been of lesser quality and probably will not stand the test of time.

One electronic game that has a lot to offer is P.E.G.S. (Parker Electronic Game System). Designed by Parker Brothers, the game is for two players aged 7 to 14. P.E.G.S. is really a game full of games — actually 15 of them — which vary in degree of difficulty. They all are played on a simple playing unit which is a two-sided grid that stands vertically between the two players.

The playing pieces are orange pegs and yellow markers. The grid is made up of six rows and six columns. The rows are lettered A through F and the columns are numbered one through six. The point where a row meets a column is called a location. There are 36 locations on the grid.

This simple unit, which requires only a 9-volt battery to operate, is the basis for a world of fun. Some of the games are easy; some are more difficult but they all require players to think, formulate strategy and make use of memory. For this reason all of the games in P.E.G.S. have an educational benefit. They encourage children to exercise their minds and develop their mental skills.

Here is an example of one of the simple games, called Free-For-All. The object of the game is to end up with more pegs on the grid than your opponent.

Players take turns inserting one orange peg at a time on their side of the grid. If they place a peg in the same location as their opponent's peg, an electronic alarm will sound and the player who is placing the peg must remove it at once. If no alarm sounds the peg can remain in the grid.

The game continues until four alarms are sounded in succession. When this happens, each of the players counts the pegs on his side of the grid and the player with the most pegs is the winner.

As mentioned, the games vary in complexity. Five games are designed for beginners, five for intermediate players and five are specifically for advanced level competitors.

There are games with intriguing titles such as "Rapid Transit," "Hostage," and "Space Attack," and games with familiar names such as "Tic Tac Toe," "Leap Frog," "Football" and "Soccer."

For the truly creative individual, P.E.G.S. offers the opportunity to invent more games. The possibilities are almost endless.

There are many fine electronic games on the market but for players aged 7 to 14, P.E.G.S. is an interesting that will prove difficult to beat.

Special note should go to Babbie Freiberg, one of the music Departments most active members. Not only was she selected for the District-wide Honor Band but was named to play in the All-State Honor Band sponsored by the California Band Directors Association. Babbie was competing with over 800 students, all of whom play a variety of instruments. Of these people, only 250 are selected for this honor. Babbie has played oboe in the Concert Band, alto sax in the Marching Band and has been lead alto sax in the Jazz Band for the past three years. She received a Superior rating on oboe in the local solo-ensemble festivals and a Command Performance rating on English horn. She is the leader of the Dixieland band and of the sax ensembles, all of which have received Superior ratings. Congratulations.

Babbie has also been keeping busy with other things. She is the president of the Student Advisory Board, a group which was trying to re-instate an open campus policy in the district. The goal was reached Jan. 16 when the school board voted to allow open campus throughout the district. She has worked for many months and spent many hours reviewing surveys and should be commended for her outstanding efforts.

Westmoor had its elections for spring semester student body officers on Jan. 18. The winners are: President, Angela Rizzo; vice president, Kris Tong; secretary, Shelly LaBruzzo; parliamentarian, Sally McMillan; commissioner of entertainment, Rachel Fernandez; commissioner of clubs, Demetrice Shorter; and commissioner of publicity, myself.

Westmoor's Drama Department had its annual fall play on Jan. 11, 12, and 13 and it was, in the opinion of many, one of the department's best performances. The play, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," was performed in front of large audiences each night. This delightful comedy, written by French playwright Jean Giraudoux, centered itself around Countess Aurelia, The Madwoman of Chaillot, and her attempt to rid the world of all its evil.

Directed by Kenneth Brown, the cast included Dan Feinberg, Doug Jeppson, Todd Walworth, Gail Demekas, Lisa Braski, Duane Rogowski, James Pontsler, Amy Johnson, Stephanie Goff, Lisa Lemish, Bob Sankey, Diane Hart, Roy Bautista, Chuck Elliot, Mike Montes, Rich Garcia, Teri Cinti, Mike Lyons, George Brunday, Colin Price, Craig Stenberg, Ian Johnson, Marcia Kludjian, Kathy Schnaars, Peggy Morris, and Jalph Rechnitz.

The dedicated stage crew included Babbie Freiberg, Annette LaStella, Sandy Jones, Maurice Lowe, Norman Howard, Letti Turnbull, Mary Mikulin, Mary Ann Foue, Christina Loeffler, Annali Loeffler, Leslie Cooper, Caroline Lubbe, Barbara Nadeau, Marilyn Fowler, Bernie Zimmer, Paul Grosshans, Rob Miller, Thomas Boyd, Cindy Lewkowicz, and Jerry Zarate.

Congratulations to Westmoor's Black Student Union, which presented an excellent Winter Ball Jan. 19, featuring Radio Station KDIa disc jockey Alvin John Waples. Many students danced to the popular music of today.

Westmoor's Science Club, the Atoms Family, is presenting the first annual Faculty Variety Show March 9. Many of the school's faculty will perform various skits, songs, and acts in an effort to raise money for this event. In future columns I will list the acts as a small preview of the evening's events.

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

"Let's Get Fresh!"

From the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs: "In season, fresh and raw fruits and vegetables usually cost less than canned or frozen varieties. Depending on the time of year and your personal preference, it is a good idea to comparison shop between different forms of the same food."

Taking advantage of seasonal buys in produce is a good inflation fighting idea. When such items as corn, onions, squash, tomatoes, potatoes, melons, peaches, plums and all the other favorites come to market in large quantities, the price naturally goes down. That's when Inflation Fighters make their moves. By featuring these plentiful fruits and vegetables often in their family's menus throughout the year, they save substantially!

The Regent

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

This week I would like to congratulate eight members of Serramonte High School's Concert Band, who were accepted for the District Honor Band. The tryouts for the honor band were Jan. 10, and the competition was stiff.

Congratulations to Jason Hurd and Lani Schultz on flute, Glenn Navor on bass clarinet, Rosie Axiak on bells, Anne Hardey on clarinet, Curtis Dennison on alto saxophone, Leslie McNeil on bassoon, and Liz McNeil on alto clarinet.

Two members of the band were selected as alternates; June Lara on flute and Randy Butler on percussion.

The Honor Band will attend a weekend camp and put on a concert on the last night.

Serramonte High recently had another assembly. Representatives from UC-Berkeley presented a unique and interesting look at energy in the U.S. Special thanks go to the executive board for sponsoring this fine assembly.

"How to change your program" instructions are posted in the treasurer's office window, counseling office and attendance office windows. They also are posted in every classroom. If you are changing your programs, be sure to follow these procedures exactly and note the dates and deadlines.

Are you interested in living in another country? The International Fellowship may interest you. Contact Ms. Cahill for more information.

Congratulations go to our small but determined varsity soccer team for upsetting Westmoor Jan. 5. Our junior varsity team also won, which moves both teams into first place in the NPL.
